Introduction to Bitcoins and the Bitcoin Network

A bitcoin is a form of digital currency that is issued and transmitted through an open source math-based protocol platform using security that is cryptographic and known as the "Bitcoin Network." The Bitcoin Network is an online, peer-to-peer user network that hosts the "Blockchain" or public transaction ledger and the source code that comprises the basis for the cryptography and math-based protocols governing the Bitcoin Network. There is no single entity which owns or operates the Bitcoin Network. The Bitcoin Network is collectively maintained by a decentralized user base. Bitcoins may be used to pay for goods and services or can be converted to fiat currencies, such as the US Dollar, at rates determined on Bitcoin Exchanges or in individual end-user-to-end-user transactions under a barter system.

The Bitcoin Network is decentralized and does not rely on either governmental authorities or financial institutions to create, transmit or determine the value of bitcoins. Rather, bitcoins are created and allocated by the Bitcoin Network protocol through a "mining" process subject to a strict, well-known issuance schedule. The value of bitcoins is determined by the supply of and demand for bitcoins in the Bitcoin Exchange Market (and in private end-user-to-end-user transactions), as well as the number of merchants that accept them. As bitcoin transactions can be broadcast to the Bitcoin Network by any user's bitcoin software and bitcoins can be transferred without the involvement of intermediaries or third parties, there are little or no transaction costs in direct peer-to-peer transactions on the Bitcoin Network. Third party service providers such as Bitcoin Exchanges and bitcoin third party payment processing services may charge significant fees for processing transactions and for converting, or facilitating the conversion of, bitcoins to or from fiat currency.

In order to own, transfer or use bitcoins, a person generally must have Internet access to connect to the Bitcoin Network. Bitcoin transactions between parties occur very rapidly (within several seconds) and may be made directly between end-users without the need for a third-party intermediary, although there are entities that provide third-party intermediary services. To prevent the possibility of double-spending a single bitcoin, a user must notify the Bitcoin Network of the transaction by broadcasting the transaction data to its network peers.

The history of Bitcoin

In November 2008, a paper was posted to a cryptography mailing list[10] under the name Satoshi Nakamoto titled Bitcoin: A Peer-to-Peer Electronic Cash System. This paper detailed methods of using a peer-to-peer network to generate what was described as "a system for electronic transactions without relying on trust". In January 2009, the bitcoin network came into existence with the release of the first open source bitcoin client and the issuance of the first bitcoins,

While there have been ebbs and flows in the history of Bitcoin pricing, at the date of this report, Bitcoin trades near its all-time of approximately $2,925. The total value of Bitcoin in circulation is now almost $50 billion. At its inception, each Bitcoin was pegged a price of $1 so the increase in the currency has been substantial. While the change in pricing is due to supply and demand, some factors have clearly been instrumental in the movement of the currency:

a. Fixed amount of currency- Worldwide budget deficits have grown at greater levels than GDP since the inception of Bitcoin, the amount of bitcoin has remained constant;

b. Acceptance by countries and general population-Recently, large countries such as Russia, South Korea and China have accepted cryptocurrencies as legitimate tender for settling transactions which have increased the demand for Bitcoin;
c. Currency controls- Recent moves, such as India's elimination of the 500 rupee and 1,000 rupee notes have resulted in increased demand for a digital currency

F. RESULTS OF OPERATIONS FOR THE PERIOD ENDED MARCH 31, 2016 COMPARED TO THE PERIOD ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 2014:

Material Changes in Financial Condition

At March 31, 2016, we had a working capital deficit of ($2,072,180), compared to a working capital deficit of ($1,705,719), at June 30, 2015. At March 31, 2016, our assets consisted of cash of $17,425, Digital currencies of $1,803, Property and equipment net of $40,467 and License agreement of $10,000. Our assets as of June 30, 2015 consisted of cash of $85,687, Digital currencies of $3,895, Property and equipment net of $41,970 and License agreement of $10,000.

At March 31, 2016, our total current liabilities increased to $2,091,408 (from $1,795,301 at June 30, 2015) The increase was due to an increased derivative liability balance of $652,500, offset by a reduced balance of accounts payable of $164,541 (due to reversal of liabilities at the former cattle subsidiary) and a reduced convertible debt balance of $234,664 due to the exchange of $242,000 of debt to newly issued Series G Preferred stock.

Since our existing cash balance is $17,425, we currently do not have sufficient funds to carry out normal operations over the next six (6) months. Our short and long-term survival is dependent on funding from sales of securities as necessary or from shareholder loans, and thus, to the extent that we require additional funds to support our operations or the expansion of our business, we may attempt to sell additional equity shares or issue debt. Any sale of additional equity securities will result in dilution to our stockholders. Recent events in worldwide capital markets may make it more difficult for us to raise additional equity or capital. There can be no assurance that additional financing, if required, will be available to us or on acceptable terms.
